Meet New Medicine

The New Medicine Foundation (NMF) was created to provide natural and efficient health solutions backed by evidence-based scientific data. In a world plagued increasingly by epidemics of chronic adult and childhood diseases, NMF strives to fill gaps in the natural information being sought by growing numbers of patients and physicians. And while many other organizations exist that are providing new and natural information, no standards have been created and sufficient, real-world solutions are not efficiently provided.

NMF will teach a new awareness beginning with the confrontation of scientific evidence documenting the inability of traditional medicine to efficiently preserve and effectively sustain human life. Standard healthcare methods focus on expediency, and illness is often dealt with using synthetic solutions and invasive surgery.

Through proper medical investigation, guidance, and education, optimal health can happen naturally in most situations. The human body has evolved to sustain itself and its life force, not to increasingly degenerate and develop illness as is now most commonly seen. NMF will educate future practitioners in how to better identify the true causes of symptoms, disease and healthcare problems. New Medicine Foundation exists to address the epidemic of chronic illness and to improve health naturally.

The Cause: Ubiquitous Toxicity

NMF believes the number one problem with everyday health and the largest known contributor to the epidemic of chronic illness is increasing toxicity. Since the Industrial Revolution, the Western consensus has been to create more synthetic, new-to-nature chemicals which, over time, build up in the body. Our inherent detoxification processes do not know what to do with these chemicals. As a result, direct and indirect health problems occur. As our food supply has become less natural, this increasing toxic burden over the last few decades, when combined with the nutrient deficiencies of our current diets, further compounds our health problems.

The Effect:

Many toxins contain complex properties that affect different people in different ways. Most create a combination of neuroendocrine disruption (imbalanced hormones), oxidative stress (aging) and inflammatory responses. In return, these hormonal imbalances and inflammatory responses cause other imbalances and symptoms that are then diagnosed as illness. The illness worsens as more undesirable compounds are used for symptom control, while the primary imbalances are left uncorrected. This has spawned the downward spiral of traditional healthcare and contributed to our current epidemic of chronic disease.

The Solution: New Medicine

The physician of tomorrow will learn to view most unnatural symptoms as signs of toxicity and the resulting imbalances that must be identified and corrected. NMF teaches physicians to think in terms of balanced body systems instead of smaller and smaller diagnostic boxes. By looking at health markers even without symptoms, and with current technology, most illnesses can be prevented years, even decades before some of the most common diagnostic symptoms arise. And most of the time this can be done organically without the use of ever increasing amounts of synthetic chemicals and invasive procedures.

With specific focus on organic detoxification, hormonal regulation and proper nutritional balance, NMF physicians learn to take people through a healing process as their bodies imbalances are corrected. As symptom controlling medications can be discarded the bodies normal functioning and feeling improves and the cycle then repeats more efficiently.

Laboratory Testing:

NMF strongly believes in thorough biochemical analysis with biomarkers used in traditional healthcare, but also including many others not currently focused on in medical education, because they are not related to pharmaceutical solutions. NMF doctors are trained and encouraged to request and compare before-and-after laboratory data. This ensures adherence to scientific standards and the promotion of safe practices and data compilation. New Medicine treatment works on a cellular level. As fundamental imbalances and nutritional deficiencies are corrected, an upward spiral of health may be achieved..

CellCenter

NMF's proprietary organic detoxification renews and rebalances the body....As a result of true lipophilic detoxification, body toxins and hormonal excesses are removed, a key step in restoring biochemical balance and ensuring patient satisfaction and adherence to a more sustainable healthstyle.

Pure Cell

NMF's standardized prescription bio-identicals, detoxification agents, and nutritional replacement products are important to set a standard to be followed by this largely unregulated segment of the industry. Biochemical effectiveness is an absolute necessity in creating a true and widely accepted new movement in healthcare. Much of the lack of tolerance for non-traditional care today is due to the lack of a standard of necessary biochemical deficiency treatments and products. PureCell products have met the Foundations standards for effectiveness and quality.

To complement and help teach the principles of NMF, two complimentary organizations have been created for non-prescription level health practitioners and healthstyle counselors. By creating and forming an alliance of all those interested in the sustenance of ourselves in harmony with our planet, a new human movement will be created. This new purpose for humanity will help reverse the epidemics of chronic illness, poor health and enjoyment of life for many, and global and environmental toxicity. Only through world health can we hope to achieve world peace and live a more harmonious existence with our mother earth. The science and tools are now here to use to achieve this goal.

LIVE NEW. LIVE LONG.

At the dawn of the new millennium, humanity finds itself in its most serious crisis of recorded history.....one which threatens our very existence. Our failing health and healthcare system is at the heart of this crisis. Our reliance on synthetic solutions for every aspect of life and health is quickly putting our survival in jeopardy while polluting the very world that sustains us.

The New Medicine Foundation teaches the return to a completely natural and harmonious way of life with organic healing systems that efficiently and effectively restore a healthy balance to our bodies quickly, thus reversing and preventing disease. This teaches a way of life that will also re-educate our race to live in peace with nature.

It is time to make a choice. NMF was conceived to teach and provide efficient answers for those healers who seek the truth in health and life. Exercising a more natural healthstyle is a necessity for our survival and longevity. New Medicine Foundation rises out of necessity and will continue to educate the public concerning what 'Health' means. There is a mandate for this message. To live completely free from toxic exposure in any civilized part of the world is currently implausible, but the more education and empowerment, the more manageable.
